COSSACKS AND DRAGOONS KILL 18 RUSSIA WORKMEN

LODZ, June 21.—Eighteen persons were killed and 100 wounded tonight by Cossacks and dragoons and Cossacks on a procession of 50,000 workmen which had been organized as a demonstration against the government.

The demonstration had been quietly arranged. At 8 o'clock the workmen, 10,000 strong, with 30 red flags, marched through Piotrokowska street shouting "Down with despotism." They gathered in the old market place, where speeches were made by Socialists.

Up to this point the police had not interfered. At 9 o'clock the procession formed and was marching up Glowna street when suddenly the Cossacks and dragoons rushed from the side streets and fired a number of volleys. The crowd fled panic-stricken, leaving 18 killed and 100 wounded.

HERBERT W. BOWEN ASSAILS A REPLY TO THE PRESIDENT

Adheres to His Former Declaration of Innocence and Scathingly Arraigns Loomis---Says Facts Do Not Warrant Roosevelt's Action in Dismissing Him.

NEW YORK, June 21.—Herbert W. Bowen, formerly minister to Venezuela, today made public a long statement in reply to President Roosevelt's letter dismissing him from the diplomatic service as the result of the investigation made by Secretary Taft in the controversy between Mr. Bowen and Francis B. Loomis, first assistant secretary of state.

Mr. Bowen declares that the Venezuela scandal constitutes a national disgrace. He asserts that the Loomis scandal pervaded Caracas and country grew worse and worse. Mr. Bowen says that shortly after he called the matter to the attention of the department of state he received a cable offer from Washington of diplomatic promotion that would remove him from Caracas.

"I admit," he declared, "that I regarded the offer as an attempt to bribe me, called under the offer of a higher position and inspired by Mr. Loomis. I make no doubt that in the course of the recent inquiry it had been sufficiently plain that I did not think Mr. Loomis an honest man and that I did not believe his conduct as minister to Venezuela had been honorable."

Mr. Bowen says that the recent decision to employ should not prevent a complete portrayal of the loose and thoughtless investigation and of the suppression of truth which it was intended to establish, he adds. "Injustice of evil will never crush it. No officer however high should shelter a wrong doer."

Concluding Mr. Bowen says:

"My poison at fate and the use of little in comparison to the public. But it does concern the whole country that its diplomatic representatives should be independent. It is impossible to overestimate the importance of every American citizen should be specially concerned when a man who as a minister to a foreign state has been the cause of grave scandals affecting his personal integrity and the honor of his government is promoted to the high office of first assistant secretary of state and controls important negotiations with the very government at whose capital he caused the scandals and gained a tainted reputation."

HOLY CROSS COLLEGE CONFERS LL.D. DEGREE ON PRESIDENT

WORCESTER, Mass., June 21.—Steadily falling rain drenched the festal drapings of the city and disappointed the people of Worcester, but detracted not at all from the enthusiastic reception which was given President Roosevelt on the occasion of his visit to Clark university and Holy Cross college. The president responded to the cordiality of the people by riding through the streets of the city in an open carriage and much of the time with head bared. The president delivered addresses both at Holy Cross and Clark universities. At the latter institution conferred upon him the honorary degree of LL.D. At Clark university the president took occasion to [illegible] Dr. Wright [illegible] the Unitedstates senator from Massachusetts.

At Holy Cross he addressed a large body of people on the athletic field, which was filled with students and visitors. A canvas shelter erected there being insufficient to cover the crowd.

At the home of Congressman Rockwood Hoar the president had luncheon and he departed soon afterward for Williamstown where tomorrow he is to be given a degree by Williams college.

A feature of the railroad trip to this city was the sending of telegrams by the president to the captains of the Harvard and Yale crews at Gales Ferry, Conn., through which he had passed earlier in the day while asleep.

After the president's departure the police announced that when he was in this city they had arrested Jennie G. Hirsch, a resident of this city, on the charge of writing rude letters to Miss Hirsch, who is about 27 years of age, had been writing notes of a rude character to the president, in a band box which she declared was to be given to the president. She insisted that the presents belonged to Holy Cross college and Colonel Father Hagan, the president of the college, thought the parcel was meant for President Roosevelt. A policeman's attention was called to the woman and he removed her to the police station.

STATE REALTY ASSOCIATION FINISHES ORGANIZATION

With Visions of the Future Radiant Through the Vistas of Opportunity, Delegates Determine to Enter Wider Field and the Colorado State Commercial Association Is Born.

Reorganization was the keynote of the Colorado State Realty association's second day of convention. Henceforth the endeavors of its active membership will be recognized as the fruits of the Colorado Commercial association.

The committee on ways and means, through its chairman, D. C. Packard, made two reports yesterday afternoon, one giving terms of a reorganization and one recommending the appointment of committees of existing definiteness of $2,500 among the several cities according to the membership of each. The latter was first adopted and the former was then discussed and adopted. The new organization will be known as the Colorado State Commercial association and membership is to cost $10 per annum. There are to be thirteen directors, three vice presidents, fifteen members of the advisory board and five members of the executive board. The advisory, executive boards and vice presidents may vote with the directors who elect the president and secretary. They will probably re-elect John T. Burns as secretary. Zeth Charles Fair of Denver seems to be slated for the presidency.

The directors and presidents and members of the advisory and executive boards will be elected today and the next place of meeting determined.

Each of the three sessions of yesterday was a splendid exemplification of the word "Boost." Excellent addresses and boundless enthusiasm characterized each. Two of the best papers of the session were those read in the forenoon by Henry T. Arnold, of Denver, and State Auditor A. E. Rent. Mr. Arnold did the delegates become over Mr. Rent's remarks on the water supply, now neglected, that a committee was appointed to see what can be done about having every available storage basin in the state improved.

In the afternoon the big speech of the session was made by Hon. Frank H. Brooks, congressman at large, whose reception was flattering in the extreme.

At night there was a feast of good things literary and metaphorical. Lieutenant-Governor Arthur Cornforth, Fort, Governor Alva Adams, Paul Thomas, W. R. Armstrong of Lafayette and Dr. P. J. M. Hugh, mayor of Fort Collins, were the heroes of the evening's platform.

When the convention was called to order at 9 o'clock yesterday morning by Lieutenant Governor Cornforth more than 200 delegates were in their seats and the session was conducted with vim. "This is getting better and better," said H. J. Arnold, of Denver, at the close of Frank J. Park's speech.

"If this association is ever short of fortune material I will personally advance Mr. Park and be glad of the opportunity."

Forestry and Irrigation.

Forestry and irrigation were the subjects of the forenoon. W. G. M. Stone, president of the Colorado Forestry association, was the first speaker, his subject being, "Colorado Forestry Laws." Mr. Stone favors a legislation for the encouragement of forestry which will be more liberal than the laws touching agriculture or horticulture for the reason that forestry is today more important than any other subject and is more vitally related to the perpetuity of nations than all others. The destruction of the water shed of the Euphrates, he said, sealed the ruin of the Babylonian empire while forest destruction was the ultimate cause of the death of Bagdad, Phoenicia, Northern Africa and Palestine. He favored a law placing a uniform minimum tax valuation on all new forestations for a minimum of from thirty to thirty-five years with the stipulation that at the expiration of the time limit the assessment be the same as on adjacent agricultural lands.

Colorado Forests.

Clyde Leavitt, of the United States forestry bureau, spoke on "Colorado Forests and How to Preserve Them." To destroy forests, he said, injures irrigation and increases flood danger. A new forestry bill is being drafted to present to the next legislature which provides for a state department of forestry and the employment of a trained forester who will be fire chief and who will at all times measure a timber sold. The sale of the states timber land should be discouraged. The state cannot take care of its forests without an adequate appropriation. California leads the west in its precautionary measures in this matter. New York and Pennsylvania lead the east in forestry protection. To begin at once will lighten the economic burden. Europe is today spending millions in the effort to recover the forest denuding resulting from the revolution.

Survey State Reservoirs.

Hon. A. E. Rent, state auditor, spoke brilliantly of the "Conservation of Colorado Waters." His speech was the subject of much comment and as a result John McDonough of Denver, Charles T. Fertig of Colorado Springs and B. D. Sanborn of Greeley were appointed a committee of three to confer with state officers with a view to having surveys made of all the reservoir sites in the state.

The two great elements of intrinsic value, with which nature has so generously endowed Colorado, are her mineral resources and her water. Her mineral resources are fastened away and the great fortunes of the Continental Divide awaiting the call of man to increasing measure apace with the rapid strides of civilization. But in the matter of her water to the people of the state as provided by the constitution, owing to the course of recent events is shrinking measured.

Loss of Water.

A careful estimate of the amount of water now passing out of the state, and based upon gauge readings taken at or near the state line on eleven of the streams, has total in round numbers of seven million acre feet, the value of which computed at the actual average selling price of reservoir water in portions of northern Colorado amounts to the enormous sum of three hundred and seventy-five million dollars.

Recently our national congress, inspired and stimulated by the strenuous efforts of our distinguished president, created a vast fund for the erection of great irrigation works in the arid region. The citizens of Colorado were justly diligent in urging federal aid in this most laudable undertaking, always assuming, however, that the storage of Colorado water would be for application upon Colorado land. Here is the situation as we find it. The great Pathfinder project of the government in Wyoming, consisting of a reservoir covering 7,000 acres, with an approximate capacity of one million acre feet, will, when developed, acquire its water supply from a stream to which Colorado now contributes annually, according to reliable estimates, 225,000 acre feet of water. As the government is now considering bids on portions of this work we have every reason to assume that it will be carried through to completion. Apparently authentic rumors indicate that the government, through the reclamation service, is now considering the advisability of constructing a great reservoir in Colorado, on the Grand river, and contemplates applying a large portion of the capacity of this reservoir on lands outside

At 8.30 o'clock this morning delegates to the State Realty convention will visit the buildings of Colorado college, inspecting especially Palmer hall, the magnificent new science and administration building, its laboratories, etc. The visitors will be conducted by Prof. John C. Shedd and other professors. Colorado college's new engineering school will be of especial interest to those men who are working for the upbuilding of Colorado, in which work engineering will be of such vast importance.

BELIEF THAT GREAT BATTLE IS RAGING IN MANCHURIA

ST. PETERSBURG, June 22.—12:34 a. m.—The public has no idea that negotiations for an armistice are on foot, believes that a great battle in Manchuria is now being fought, and official dispatches from both sides bear out the idea that the Japanese have commenced their main advance, though as yet there have been no heavy collisions.

The Japanese are pushing forward in force along the Mandarin road. The Russians reduced the advanced positions without serious resistance and are evidently retreating to the first line of intrenchments, which is believed to cross the road at Sinchengtsi.

Lieutenant General Linevitch evidently has imposed an embargo on press messages, indicating that hostilities have entered on a serious phase.

TWENTIETH CENTURY LIMITED PLUNGES TO HORRIBLE FATE

Ran Into Open Switch Near Mentor, O., Precipitating Fearful Wreck---Many Killed and Injured---Several, Lying Helpless in the Ruins, Burned to Death.

MENTOR, Ohio, June 21.—Running at the rate of more than 40 miles an hour the Twentieth Century Limited on the Lake Shore road dashed into an open switch at the passenger station here shortly before 10 o'clock tonight. Four or five persons were killed and 10 or 15 badly injured. The combination baggage and smoking buffet car and the coach behind it caught fire and were destroyed.

The train was eastbound, having left Cleveland about 9 o'clock, and as it does not stop here it was running at great speed. The engineer did not notice the open switch until the train struck it. The engine left the rails and plowed into the ground, tearing up the track for yards. The two coaches following it jammed into it with great force and were crushed, the fire from the engine setting them ablaze. Fortunately, most of the occupants of these two coaches were rescued before the fire reached them.

Among the killed is the engineer, the other dead being passengers who were in the smoking car. The fireman was so badly hurt that he will die, and among the injured is a Mr. Wellman, of Cleveland, and Attorney Bennett of New York.

The Lake Shore officials at once summoned all the doctors within reach. The dead and injured were taken care of and sent on a special train to Cleveland where they will be placed in hospitals. Those in the rear coaches were not injured and they set about at once to rescue the others in the burning cars. The fire spread with much rapidity and it was with much difficulty that the passengers in the rear coaches behind the engine were pulled from the debris.

The dead are:

JOHN BENNETT, New York, [illegible] to death.

THOMAS MORGAN, of the Well [illegible] Seaver-Morgan company, Cleveland, burned to death.

NEWT WALLERS, [illegible], Hamburg, N. Y.

FIREMAN GRAHAM, Collinwood, Ohio.

EMPLOYERS WILL GRANT ANOTHER POINT TO STRIKERS

CHICAGO, June 21.—A settlement of the teamsters' strike by mediation tonight appears to be as remote as it did a month ago. The indications are that the committee appointed by the Teamsters Joint council with full power to act in bringing about an adjustment of the difficulty will be unable to accomplish anything. This committee called on J. V. Farwell, representative of the Employers association today and requested that the employers grant the committee a conference in an attempt to settle the strike. Mr. Farwell informed the labor men that there was only one way to settle the trouble and that was for the strikers to accept the terms offered by the Employers association a week ago.

These terms are so at variance with what the strikers claimed that the committee requested Mr. Farwell to give them until tomorrow morning to consider the matter. Mr. Farwell then informed the labor officials that until they reached a decision to accept the terms of the employers there was no use in making further attempt to bring about a conference, as the employers were in a position to dictate terms and did not intend to concede the strikers another single point.

FENDRICKS MAKES REPORT TO GOVERNOR

ALBANY, N. Y., June 21.—The report of Superintendent Hendricks of the state insurance department to Governor Higgins upon his investigation of the Equitable Life Assurance society was made public here and in New York tonight. It is described in the title as a "Preliminary report" and it sharply criticises the management of the society as well as the new trust arrangement for voting the stock agreed upon by Thomas F. Ryan and the three trustees designated by him.

In conclusion the report says:

"No superficial measures will correct the existing evils in this society. A cancer cannot be cured by treating the symptoms. Complete mutualization with the elimination of the stock to be paid for at a price only commensurate with its dividends is in my opinion, the only sure measure of relief."

"This report, with a copy of the evidence taken in this investigation, will be transmitted to the attorney general for such action as he may deem proper."

COLLEGE TWIRLER IS SIGNED BY S. N. NYE

Willis E. Hester, the college twirler, has been signed by S. N. Nye, manager of the Millionaires. He will spend the next 10 days getting into first-class condition and will join the team when it opens its Denver series on July 1. Jack Tanner had arranged to take Hester along with the team on the present trip on account of the splendid showing he made in his try-out against Sioux City, but when Nye and Briscoe took charge of the team and started them out on the trip it was thought best to take Swormstedt along.

Cook, the new player, joined the squad at Des Moines yesterday morning. He played center field in yesterday's game, getting a hit, a base on balls and a run out of four times up. Two put-outs are also credited to him. Shriver is expected to reach this city today, having left Louisville last Friday night.

TWO DENVER PLAYERS SLUG AND THE UMPIRE TROUBLE TAKEN TO POLICE COURT.

Special to the Gazette.

The ball game between Sioux City and Denver this afternoon ended in a riot. Right Fielder Randall and Second Baseman Parrine, of Denver, assaulted Umpire Schuester and were arrested on the charge of disturbing the peace. They were bound over in the sum of $100 to appear in police court in the morning. Manager Bill Everitt, of Denver, was fined $10 by Umpire Schuster and was ordered off the grounds. Secretary Bill Pfouts, of the Grizzlies, was also ordered off the field. Pitcher Bohannon was repeatedly warned not to protest on balls and strikes. Schuester wound up by awarding the game to Sioux City by the score of 9 to 0.

When the trouble occurred in the eighth inning, the score was 2 to 1 in favor of Sioux City. Perrine was forced out at second base and for protesting he was ordered off the grounds. Randall and Umpire Schuester exchanged uncomplimentary remarks, and mixed it up. Randall hitting Schuester in the face. When the two were pulled apart Perrine punched Schuester in the back of the head.

COUNCIL OPENS STREET CAR FRANCHISE PRINTED

The city council in adjourned session last evening listened to arguments for and against the granting of the proposed franchise for an extension of the street car system to the Evergreen cemetery, and then, by a vote of 7 to 1, ordered the franchise sent to the printer, which is taken to mean that the ordinance will be passed by a similar vote. Alderman Seldomridge voted against the resolution.

Immediately after the council was called to order the report of City Engineer R. H. Ashworth, to the effect that the petitions presented to the council signed by property owners along the proposed route of the new car line represented more than one-half of the property fronting on the proposed right of way, was received and placed on file.

Attorney Henry McAllister, Jr., representing the Colorado Springs and Interurban Railway company, said that the application for a franchise along the proposed route was made at the request of residents in the southeast part of the city and in deference to public desire. The company had never been anxious for the franchise as there were grave doubts if it would be a paying proposition for many years to come, but Mr. Stratton, during his life, was anxious to construct the line and the only reason it was not constructed under the franchise granted some years ago was the inability of the cars to pass through the Costilla street undercrossing. The pending ordinance had been taken almost bodily from the franchise granted to Mr. Stratton by an almost unanimous vote of the people, and while there had been some criticism, the company had reason to believe that the citizens desired the franchise granted. The company did not desire the pending ordinance changed, and if the council did not vote to pass the ordinance in its present form it should be rejected.

The Rev. C. H. Cheadle, of the Hillside Congregational church, was present at the head of a strong delegation from the east side. He said that the Hillside Improvement society considered, the matter one of vital importance, and the whole population of that section, about 1,200, desired the construction of the proposed line.

The clerk was instructed to read the ordinance in full and a resolution was then offered by Alderman Hill that the clerk be instructed to have the ordinance published. On roll call, Aldermen Tucker, McCaffery, Hosmun, Hill, Albin, Verner and Holden voted yea, and Alderman Seldomridge voted nay.

The street committee was directed to have arc lights installed, as recommended by the committee, and on motion the grade established on Grant avenue by the city engineer was approved.

The "corrall" ordinance, being an ordinance concerning nuisances and placing corrals under the control of the health commissioner, was read and placed upon its passage. The ordinance was then passed without a dissenting vote.

Tabulated bids for the construction of four concrete conduits on the east side were read as prepared by the city engineer, and the bid of John Stephenson of $1,323 was accepted. The conduits will be constructed across Shook's run at Institute, Water, Prospect and Franklin streets. Action upon the sewer bids was deferred until the next meeting.

HAND CRUSHED—Mr. Briggs, an employe of the Portland mill, yesterday afternoon sustained a painful and serious injury while working at the mill. His hand was so badly crushed that it may be necessary to amputate his fingers.

STATE REALTY ASSOCIATION DECIDES ON REORGANIZATION

of this state and some persons claim even as far away as California

Obliterate State Lines

When we consider the fact that the basin actually owns a very large majority of all Colorado's water shed, coupled with the recent comments of the Hon. Moses Hallett in [illegible] in the United States [illegible] obliterating the state lines with reference to the [illegible] of right to the use of water together with the [illegible] interest now being displayed by the government as [illegible] in the impending in the supreme court of the United States between the state of Kansas and Colorado we are brought face to face with a condition and not a theory and the difficulty is that of Colorado would [illegible] use and benefits of her [illegible] waters she must promptly awaken to the fact that the government does not and will not recognize state lines and that she has an imperative [illegible] duty to perform that of appropriating her water before other states [illegible] themselves of the opportunity.

The Remedy.

Now for the remedy. There are hundreds of magnificent undeveloped reservoirs will the state [illegible] actively prosecute the development [illegible] for the benefit of [illegible] Colorado citizens.

Let us all [illegible] preservation of our [illegible] present to the federal [illegible] that by far the [illegible] water is attained by [illegible] cation upon the lands in [illegible] source of supply. [illegible] investor as well as [illegible] government that the storage of the water in our high mountain ranges will [illegible] available tens of thousands of [illegible] and the same water will serve the double purpose of being utilized for irrigation on the plains below, and performs the third duty of irrigating additional lands still farther down the stream as is demonstrated today on the South Platte river by the fact that 200,000 acre feet of return water accumulated on that stream during the brief period of one hundred days.

Handsome Profit.

Let us demonstrate beyond the shadow of a doubt that engineering skill can transfer across the Continental divide a surplus waters of the western slope which can immediately be sold to coal owners east of the range at a price which will yield a handsome profit on the investment thereby eliminating the utterly absurd proposition of conveying the waters of the Grand river from Grand canon to California at loss by seepage and evaporation of from fifty to seventy five per cent.

If the foregoing suggestion [illegible] into effect Colorado's water will be served and will reap in the upbuilding of the Centennial state far beyond the most brilliant dreams of the peers of the most day optimists.

An interesting address was delivered by J. S. Green of Pueblo on the subject of Irrigation in the Arkansas Valley. Mr. Green dwelt at length upon the promising condition of that rich belt and urged harmonious action.

Nature's Treasure House.

Frank R. Park of Boulder spoke of "Colorado's Growth in Values." He estimated the cash realized from Colorado resources in 1904 to have been as follows: Agriculture and live stock $72,000,000, mines $40,000,000, miscellaneous products $21,000,000. When David H. Wall planted his first garden at Golden in 1859 his garden lands were hardly worth 5 cents an acre, garden and fruit lands are now worth from $100 to $400 an acre. The eastern farmer who whistles when he is told that ranch land in Colorado with vested water rights is worth $100 an acre does not realize that this land will produce $50 per acre each year. With no drouth nor failure of crops and rich soil Colorado at present has 24,000 miles of irrigation canals and laterals valued at $27,000,000. The wealth per capita in Colorado is $2,760.

Statistics of Wealth

Here are some figures about Colorado industries which tell the state's story better than words:

Smelter output for 1904	$4,[illegible]
Annual amount paid for [illegible] mines and reduction	[illegible]
Annual value of coal output	[illegible]
Wages paid coal mine employes last year	[illegible]
Value of manufactures for 1904 other than smelting	[illegible]
Annual wages of factory employes	[illegible]
Number of factories	[illegible]
Railroad employes' wages	[illegible]
Invested in sugar beet factories	[illegible]
Paid to farmers and factory laborers in 1904	[illegible]
Value of refined sugar	[illegible]

Cold-Blooded Business

One of the most [illegible] and thoughtfully appreciated addresses of the convention was [illegible] morning by Herald Arnold of Denver on "Local Municipal Honor." It [illegible] said:

I have read with a great deal of interest of the advertising matter [illegible] towns. Attractively [illegible] illustrated [illegible] tingly set forth [illegible] in concise [illegible] one glowing [illegible] debtedness and the special tax which [illegible] thereon. And I [illegible] mitted to boom of the high rate of taxation which we [illegible] and no mention is made of the magnificent and [illegible] premiums paid for insurance protection. The remedy for these burdens is within the reach of each individual locality and can be accomplished by concerted action.

Question of Credit.

Therefore while we are [illegible] that indebtedness and [illegible] here the [illegible] that stands in the far [illegible] to prosperity and the very [illegible] of its growth and [illegible] to the [illegible] Home [illegible] make the [illegible] Hall [illegible] "Heavy Burdens."

Heavy Burdens

Why should smaller towns pay from [illegible] per cent higher rates of interest [illegible] bonds than a [illegible] Springs [illegible] which your work is [illegible] be. It is not altogether because your issue is small but largely because you have not an established rating as a fixed credit and your record for business [illegible] has never been made.

Again we are the [illegible] and more in establishing new enterprises [illegible] and are offering inducements therefor [illegible] well that we look after those already planted and see what [illegible] ment we are offering and what [illegible] we are having toward [illegible] for them before we [illegible]

Municipal Integrity

[illegible] where honesty and integrity are [illegible] making certain [illegible] experience have learned [illegible] public work [illegible] must make at [illegible] frequent [illegible] and many [illegible] between [illegible] individuals [illegible] corporations. We should [illegible] good [illegible] towns and [illegible] with individuals or commercial bodies is not that honor of the [illegible] administrative integrity [illegible] decline. I should say no [illegible] that these things [illegible] conditions [illegible] towns and cities?

Reform Land Laws

First on the program of the afternoon was the address of Hon. Franklin E. Brooks [illegible] Reform Land Laws was treated with [illegible] which [illegible] people [illegible] to speak. He was given the most [illegible] and suggestions [illegible] the gleams with the vanity that [illegible] of his hearers. His speech is given elsewhere in this issue of the Gazette.

Mark G. Woodruff, register of the state land board, spoke of the State Lands and State Reserves. He gave [illegible] of the policy of the state in the discharge of its trust and of the manner in which the state's institutions of the state are [illegible] benefited. He explained that [illegible] never sells its timber lands.

Useful Measures.

President E. L. Chamberlain spoke informally of the work done by the association and of the committee. It had been instrumental in the enactment of three useful measures [illegible] for the benefit [illegible] land holders, chase properties [illegible] of delinquent taxes, [illegible] facilitate the probating of the will of a non-resident and [illegible] modifying the existing laws as to the property rights of married women. The effort to have a state board of immigration appointed was abandoned because the proffered appropriation was not sufficient to assure results.

Legislative Affairs

[illegible] P. Bennett, A. F. Burt and Milton A. Fenger discussed legislative affairs [illegible] Mr. Bennett [illegible] the [illegible] Mr. Burt [illegible] thought that a month ago was still [illegible] security for one fiftieth value of property, loaned at 10 or 12 per cent when the owner could get 50 per cent of its value at 6 or 8 per cent on a mortgage. Mr. Aufenger thought that if a taxpayer neglected his property to the extent that it was necessary to force payment then it was perfectly just for the state to allow the purchaser the assumption of title. Mr. Bent stated that he thought it unjust that the rights to a direct canal in which water will run only ten days in a year should defeat some perfectly feasible reservoir scheme which would furnish water to a large area for the entire year. He also thought the insurance license law should be so amended as to eliminate the wildcat schemes of irresponsible companies.

Kansas-Colorado Suit.

Prof. Carpenter of the State Agricultural college spoke of the litigation between Kansas and Colorado. The people of the extreme eastern portion of Kansas who do not irrigate and who never intend to do so were the instigators of the trouble. They alleged that the waters of the Arkansas river were every year decreasing and they blamed Colorado for the fact. It was not denied that the river's flow was annually something less, but it was proved that it had been so for years and perhaps centuries before irrigation was in practice. It was proved also that Colorado is in no wise to blame for this. The matter now rests with the supreme court of the United States.

Boosts for Denver.

Denver's Dependence on Colorado was the subject of an able address by Louis S. Temple president of the Denver chamber of commerce. Mr. Temple seems to be convinced that Denver has wrecked the sun a nightly good state in which to live in. He said that the secret lesson of three-fourths of the population of this state was to live on Capitol Hill, Denver, and that 24 per cent of the people of Colorado did live somewhere in Denver.

J. J. Hagerman, president of the Colorado Securities Trust company, spoke eloquently of the "Making of a Greater Colorado." His address was sympathetic and to congress and contained possessed of a certain fine rhetorical quality and beautiful in diction. He was accorded an ovation of unmistakable sincerity.

Smoker a Big Hit

The smoker was a big hit. More than 400 delegates were present. When 400 real estate men dwell together in brotherly love, said the Hon. Alva Adams, the angels sing in ecstatic jubilee.

President Chamberlin presided. Alva Adams was the first speaker. His subject was "Fellowship and Citizenship." The heroin, said Mr. Adams, is the high priest of selfishness. He is a cipher in the drama of life. Race suicide is a myth. There will always be more people upon the earth than there are now. I am proud to stand before the only immigration bureau in Colorado. You are the prophets of your day.

Paul Thieman, editorial writer of the Denver Post, told why Missouri went Republican. He said that the Illinois farmer sold out and went to Iowa, the Iowa farmer sold out and went to Missouri and the Missouri farmer moved west to Oklahoma. Mr. Thieman admitted that he had left periods for applause in his address and these periods were well observed by his hearers.

Lieutenant Governor Cornforth made a delightful address concerning the good work of the last legislature. He bemoaned the fact that people had the habit of taking fun of the legislature, city councils, newspapers and other necessary evils. He enumerated some of the good laws the last session had enacted and some of the calamitous ones it had omitted. He expressed doubt as to the virtue of the district irrigation law for which he had voted after it had received the recommendation of the men who had taken time to investigate it.

Dr. P. L. McHugh, mayor of Fort Collins, proved himself the prince of story tellers in the short time which he occupied the platform. He is a great talker. He said he drummed up his first patient while riding about at the expense of the real estate agents who thought they would sell him a lot.

NECESSITY FOR REPEAL OF REFORM LAND LAWS

Able and Eloquent Address Delivered by Congressman Franklin E. Brooks Yesterday Before the State Realty Convention at Antlers Hotel.

I have to thank the committee for the arrangements for the opportunity of speaking to you this afternoon on a subject which has interested me greatly and to which I have given considerable attention and before a body so thoroughly representative of the best thought and energy of the state I cannot but digress for a moment to congratulate you and the state upon this organization and the work that it has so admirably initiated. What Colorado needs more than anything else is the earnest, intensive work of her best citizens. It is not sufficient that each should look after his own interests. It is not sufficient that each should attend to his own business. There must be some organization of the forces of the state if the foundations of a permanent and substantial growth are to be laid. I know of no more hopeful sign than the organization of the Commercial Club in Denver, the Mining Exchange, the Manufacturers' and Producers' association, the Home Club with its [illegible] and the Commercial Club of Pueblo. THE PASSING OF BOWEN.

THE ugly situation brought about by the quarrel between Herbert W. Bowen United States Minister to Venezuela and Assistant Secretary of State Loomis, has been ended by the President in characteristically decisive fashion. Without mincing words or beating about the bush he has gone straight to the bottom of the affair and found what he regards as sufficient proof of Bowen's culpability. Hence, Bowen is summarily dismissed.

The whole affair is exceedingly regrettable. Bowen has been minister to Venezuela for several years, and until the incident which has proved his undoing arose he was regarded as a highly capable official. Any man who represents our Government at Caracas earns his salary. President Castro is a difficult and unpleasant person to do business with, either diplomatic or commercial, and it was highly to Bowen's credit two years ago that he successfully handled the negotiations growing out of the naval demonstration made by the allied Powers.

Minister Bowen played a conspicuous part in the diplomatic game which finally resulted in the reference of the whole matter to The Hague tribunal. But shortly after this he began to busy himself with the record of Assistant Secretary Loomis, who was his predecessor at Caracas. In letters to Secretary Taft he made the charge that Loomis had had improper relations with the New York and Bermudez Asphalt Company. These charges, together with the specific accusation that while Minister to Caracas, Loomis had received a bribe of $10,000 from the company for his influence in adjusting its differences with the Venezuelan government, were printed in a New York paper. Loomis promptly denied them and made the countercharge that Bowen had caused their publication. The next step was a notice from the State Department to Bowen to come home and make good his statements.

He has not only failed to do this to the satisfaction of the President and Secretary Taft, but it has been clearly shown that his conduct throughout the affair has been improper, even had his charges been true. The President's summary treatment of him is plainly no severer than the circumstances warrant for such conduct on the part of a high diplomatic official can not for a moment be tolerated. Minister Bowen has brought about his own downfall, and while the country will regret the unfortunate termination of what might have been a brilliant career, it cannot deny the justice of the sentence meted out.

A NEW USE FOR WIRELESS.

A SUGGESTION of the possibilities of wireless telegraphy is contained in the announcement made a few days ago of its use in railroading. Messages were exchanged between an express train on the Chicago & Alton road and the headquarters of the system in Chicago. The train was running at full speed at the time the messages were sent and received, and the test was so satisfactory that the company declares its intention of hereafter controlling the movements of fast passenger trains by the use of wireless." It may also be used in the operation of its freight service.

If the plan proves practicable it will certainly mark a long step forward in the use of wireless telegraphy. But before the system is generally adopted for this purpose several difficulties in its operation will have to be overcome. One of these concerns the confusion in receiving messages sent at the same time. The ocean steamships provided with wireless equipment carry "tuned" receivers which receive only messages intended for them. Otherwise if two or more messages should be sent at the same time none of them would be intelligible.

It can easily be seen that if a railroad used the wireless system only for occasional messages there would be no danger of confusion, but suppose all of the railroads used it for operating all of their trains. Hundreds of messages would be buzzing through the air at the same time, and around a great railroad center like Chicago or Kansas City things would be badly mixed up. But of course this objection will be overcome before any attempt can be made to install the system on railroad trains and the fact that practical railroad men announce their intention of adopting it indicates that a way has already been found to keep the messages distinct.

Wireless telegraphy would without doubt greatly improve present methods of train dispatching. It would enable the dispatcher to communicate with an engineer between stations, and thus avert a great many wrecks which now occur through inability to head off a train before it reaches a certain point. The system would also be a great convenience to the traveling public for numerous occasions arise wherein it is desirable to send a telegram without waiting until the next station is reached, particularly on fast trains which stop only at intervals of an hour or two. It is not only possible, but probable that before long passengers on fast trains will be able to communicate with distant places as easily and promptly as if they were seated in a telegraph office.

GOOD ROADS.

THE subject of road building is receiving more at- [illegible] in this country now than ever before in [illegible] The people, especially those [illegible] are coming to realize the ex- [illegible] each year on bad roads, and [illegible] adopted to stop the leak. In [illegible] Eastern [illegible] the population [illegible] practicable in such states as Colorado where the burden of taxation [illegible] the individual would be too heavy.

The National Good Roads Association, whose [illegible] has been a very important factor in stimulating interest in this subject. It was organized in November, 1900, and since then has carried on a campaign of education by means of good roads cars, which have been sent over the territory covered by several of the larger railroad systems. These cars are fitted up with the latest types of road building machinery and are in charge of road experts who hold meetings in each town, lecturing on the subject and instructing the local authorities by means of object lesson roads.

The interest in the subject created in this and other ways has resulted in the holding of twelve good roads conventions in Western states and the formation within the last year of forty-eight local good roads associations. According to the secretary of the national association no less than $34,000,000 has been raised by bond issues and direct taxation in the states visited by these cars, and this sum is being expended in permanent road construction.

The United States is and always has been far behind every other first rate nation in the condition of its public highways. This is due partly to the vast extent of the country and also to its newness and comparative undevelopment. The French system of public highways is generally regarded as a model for the world. Every country road is paved with rock and the supervision is so careful that none of them is allowed to remain out of repair. Piles of rock and other road building material are placed at short intervals and whenever a hole is worn in the surface, however small it may be the road in that particular spot is torn up, rebuilt and thoroughly rolled until it is in good condition.

Such a system of roads adds tremendously to the wealth of a nation because it enables the farmers to market their crops at any and all times, and to haul loads two and three times as large as could be moved on dirt roads. It is no uncommon thing, in our Middle Western states, for the roads to be in such condition that the farmers are unable to get to town for weeks at a time. The loss thus engendered would in a few years pay for paved highways.

The time will come when the United States will have as good roads as any other nation, but they can only be secured by persistent agitation such as is being carried on by the National Good Roads Association and like organizations. The movement should be actively supported by the people of every state.

Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy says that poverty is a disease. The medical profession, which has been working hard to conquer consumption under the impression that it is the most dread scourge of humanity, should turn its attention to the poverty bacillus. The tuberculosis germ is a dangerous beast, but it doesn't prey upon all mankind like the bugger flatbrokibus.

It is safe to predict that James H. Hyde will never find another one hundred thousand dollar job. There are plenty of them in the country, but they are not given to one thousand dollar men.

Rather strange that a general demand for the abolition of the public schools and newspapers has not followed Henry James' declaration that they are corrupting our speech.

Charles J. Bonaparte is accused of having once voted for Grover Cleveland, but the country will not lose faith in him until it can be proven that he voted for William J. Bryan.

Andrew Carnegie's designation of President Roosevelt as an "international bully" means nothing except that Mr. Carnegie needs a dyspepsia tablet.

Says an Eastern paper, "All that ails Tom Lawson is that he has no sense of humor." And yet there are lots of people who regard Lawson as a joke.

Reports from Manchuria indicate that Linevitch is about to get that which is coming to him.

The Mazzini Anniversary

Centenary of the Italian Prophet of Humanity

ONE HUNDRED YEARS ago today there was born in Genoa, Italy, a prophet of humanity whose life was devoted to a single purpose, the unification of his native land. His centenary will be celebrated throughout Italy and in many European cities, and this despite or because of the fact that for years he was exiled from all countries save Great Britain, and even there the liberty granted to others was curtailed to him, his private correspondence being opened and read by government authority. In life a homeless wanderer, betrayed by friends, reproached by those whom he had served and trusted, hunted and rejected, his passing brought forth evidences of a late belief in his sincerity and recognition of the work he had done in arousing the spirit of nationality in Italian hearts. Eighty thousand mourners followed the body to the grave.

Joseph Mazzini was born in the Strada Lomellini, Genoa, June 22, 1805. His father, Giacomo Mazzini, was a distinguished physician and professor of anatomy in the university of that town. His mother, Maria Drago, was a women of great personal beauty, vigorous intellect, and deep affection. She was the one person who throughout his life never failed him. When his father, hoping to turn him from the dangerous course which he had marked out for himself as a revolutionist, espousing the cause of the people against the kings, refused to help him, she, through pitiful self-denials ennobled by the motive, saved money to send to her exiled son.

Sympathetic Nature Early Shown.

As a child, Joseph was delicate and fragile so delicate that he was almost 6 years old before he could walk. Denied the ordinary active amusements of childhood, his mind was precociously alert, and it is told of him that he could read before he could walk. From the first his was an intensely sympathetic nature, early evincing interest in the unfortunate. The first time that his mother took him out with her the child was transfixed by the sight of an old beggar seated upon the steps of a church. The mother, fearing he was frightened, stooped to carry him. He broke from her and, running forward, threw his arms around the man's neck, crying out, "Give him something, mother, give him something." The beggar, returning the child's caresses, said to his mother, "Love him well lady, he is one who will love the people." The life of Joseph Mazzini bore out the prophecy.

First of his tutors was an old priest, who taught him little but Latin. His love for books, however, took the place of many teachers. He often spoke of the eagerness with which he read philosophical and political pamphlets which he had found hidden among the medical books of his father's library. At 13 he was sent to the University of Genoa, where he remained for five years. Here he studied medicine for a time, but renounced his father's profession for the study of law. During this period at the university the Piedmontese insurrection of 1821 occurred. Many of the defeated revolutionists fled to Genoa. One of them appealed to Mazzini for help. From that day his life was governed by the idea that it was his duty to struggle for the liberty of his country.

A Divided Italy.

At that time Italy was indeed a mere geographical expression. Broken into seven petty principalities, despotically governed by masters who were in close alliance with the emperor of Austria, who encouraged them to keep their subjects from exerting political power, there was no Italian nation. The people were Lombards, Romans, Piedmontese, Neapolitans, Sardinians—not Italians. There was no common center, no common flag nor law. Divided and helpless, the people were dissatisfied and unhappy, but having no common aim or organization, their attempts to better their condition, often resulting in insurrections like that of 1821 in Piedmont, proved futile.

Among the secret societies organized to overthrow tyranny of rule and establish democratic government was the Carbonari. Mazzini joined this society but did not admire its complex machinery and felt that an association with a more definite aim was needed. He had taken his degree and was admitted to practice as an advocate, but the fact of his membership in the Carbonari having been betrayed, he was imprisoned in the fortress of Savona. His father, eager to know of what crime his son was accused, was told that "he was a young man of talent, very fond of solitary walks by night and habitually silent as to the subject of his meditations and that the government was not fond of young men of talent, the subject of whose musings was unknown to it."

Forms National Association.

From this imprisonment dated Mazzini's republican apostolate, for here in his cell he conceived the idea of the association "Young Italy," which had for its object the unification of the kingdoms, principalities and dukedoms along the peninsula. To arouse the spirit of nationality which would give birth to a united Italy was to be its work. Rienzi, tribune of Rome, had dreamed this as far back as the fourteenth century. Napoleon when a prisoner at St. Helena, had understood its necessity when he said: "Italy is a single nation; her unity of manners, of language and of literature ought, at a period more or less remote, to unite her inhabitants under one government." But it was left to Mazzini to form the association which, more than any other, brought about its realization.

Released from prison, but restricted as to movement, he left the country and went to Marseilles, where there were many refugees. With these he began the association which was organized in a very simple manner, a few [illegible] being the officials of the [illegible] association. Mazzini [illegible] the prospects of Italy. By a tively organizing relations in Italy where communications were frequent, pamphlets were smuggled throughout the country, and the association, at first composed of unknown exiles, spread rapidly. Writing of it in later years Mazzini said: "Our force could only proceed from the truth. All great national enterprises have been initiated by men unknown and of the people without power except that of faith and the will which regards neither time nor obstacles. The influential, the men of name and means come in afterward to invigorate the movement created by these first, and too often, to mislead it from its aim."

Revolutions that Failed.

The success of the new organization was so great that it led to persecution. France, eager to keep on polite terms with the rulers of Italy, asked a governmental decree expelling Mazzini. He, concealing himself from the police, remained in Marseilles strengthening the association until in 1833 it was strong enough to think seriously of action and a revolution in Piedmont was planned. Everything seemed propitious but an accident overthrew all. A second attempt failing through the youthful inexperience of the leaders was made memorable by the fact that Garibaldi was a recruit and first met Mazzini. Disappointed but not discouraged, Mazzini went to Switzerland, where another expedition was planned only to be betrayed by the military leader, Ramorino. Disheartened by failure and poverty, the young party began to weaken, but Mazzini showed his faith in organization and association by founding "Young Europe" at Berne three days after the failure of an insurrection at Lyons. His Marseilles experience was repeated in Berne, and he was expelled, going to London in 1837.

In the English capital Mazzini supported himself by writing articles concerning the Italian question. Written at first either in Italian or French, they were translated for him by friends, and appeared in the various reviews. Moved to compassion by the abject condition of the poor Italians of London, most of them either organ-grinders or hawkers of plaster casts, he founded a free elementary school in 1841. For seven years, while never remitting his exertions as head of the revolutionary party of Italy, he gave it constant and patient attention. His work for the reviews extended his acquaintance with literary people, many of whom visited the school. Among these was Margaret Fuller. William Lloyd Garrison also met him at this time.

Victim of Treachery.

In 1844 the Italian question, as embodied in Mazzini, was forced upon the attention of the English people. The awakening of English thought was due to the action of the English government, when, violating the simplest duty of hospitality, its agents broke the seals of Mazzini's letters, resealed them, to keep him in ignorance of their being opened, and then forwarded information to Austria. The story of the two brothers Bandiera, Italian officers in the Austrian army, betrayed to death through this action of English statesmen, filled England with indignation. A parliamentary inquiry was instituted, and the word "Grahaming," coined from the name of the home secretary, Sir James Graham on whose warrant the letters were opened, passed into the language as descriptive of the disgraceful practice. Thomas Carlyle wrote a vigorous letter, to the Times defending Mazzini and condemning the action as disgraceful to England.

In 1848 for a brief period Mazzini tasted the sweets of success. Waves of revolution which he had stimulated swept over Italy and called him back to his native land after an absence of seventeen years. Garibaldi was fighting with him. For a brief moment he saw realized his dream of a Roman republic and was made one of the triumvirs. But the revolution finished tragically, and in 1849 he returned to England.

For years his dream had been a unified Italy and a republican form of government. The first he saw achieved in 1870 when Victor Emmanuel as king of Italy entered Rome, but was doomed to disappointment in the latter. An uncompromising enthusiast, he lacked the farsightedness of the practical statesman. This was supplied by Cavour, mediator of Victor Emmanuel, who, during the years that Mazzini was preparing Italy to take her place among the nations watched and waited for the time when the fruits of his sowing were ripe for harvesting. Then as Mazzini had foreseen, Cavour, the man of name and means, came in to invigorate the movement born of a dream.

Others Reaped Reward.

Garibaldi, peasant and soldier, Cavour, aristocrat and diplomat, have gone into history as the men who accomplished the practical regeneration of Italy. But it was the tireless unselfish devotion of Mazzini that made their work possible. During forty years he defied the constituted powers of Europe, preparing the way of a new era. Neither honor nor praise was bestowed upon him in his lifetime. Twice sentence of death was passed upon him. Even his friends, among whom were Garibaldi, regarded him as a Utopian and theorist, calling his various projects "wild Mazzinian dreams." To-day the people know that without him Italy could not have been.

To the last he was an uncompromising advocate of republican rule and refused to take the oath of allegiance to the new king. In 1870 he was arrested, charged with conspiring to found a Sicilian republic, but was released and after a short period in England went to Lugano to publish a paper. He died March 10, 1872, under an assumed name at the house of a friend at Pisa, and was buried in the Campo Santo at Genoa, where a statue has been erected to his memory.

When he was dead the Italian parliament, to which he had been elected but refused his seat because he would not take the oath of allegiance to a king, by a unanimous vote expressed the sorrow of the people. The people [illegible] who had [illegible] grudging [illegible] the cause of liberty and country's freedom.

Joseph Mazzini was a dreamer, but out of the fabric of his dream was builded a nation. He was impractical, but his agitation gave freedom to a people. The laurel which was denied his brow has been placed upon his grave, and his name is now written among those who have made the world better because they lived.—Henry Barrett Chamberlin in Chicago Record-Herald.

"Bang! Bang!"

Two revolver shots rang out yesterday on the early morning air, and the black powder smoke drifting from a street car standing at the corner of Cascade avenue and Huerfano street quickly disclosed the scene of the shooting.

The target practice was indulged in by Miss Emma Miller, a pretty young woman about 22 years of age, and the target was Conductor John Stearns, of the Pike's Peak Cog road. The weapon was a 22-caliber bulldog revolver, and while no damage was done, Stearns was badly scared and made a record sprint across the Antlers park, going in the direction of the Rio Grande depot. Miss Miller was arrested by Patrolmen Swanson and McInturf, who escorted her to the police headquarters and summoned a physician, as the young woman was clearly upon the verge of a complete collapse.

Investigation showed that Miss Miller and Stearns were engaged to be married up to about ten days ago, when he secured the return of the engagement ring upon a pretext. On June 14 Stearns applied for and received a license permitting him to marry Miss Alice Corbett of this city. The ceremony was performed later in the day. The matter worried Miss Miller, who was then employed at Manitou, and she removed to this city and accepted a position as a waitress.

But she could not forget the treatment she had received at the hands of Stearns. Finally, while almost upon the verge of nervous prostration, she procured the little pop-gun and prepared for the next meeting with Stearns, which was scheduled for 8 o'clock yesterday morning. For nearly two hours the couple talked over their affairs and Stearns ridiculed the girl for the affection which she bore him. His laughter drove the girl to distraction and as he boarded the street car to go to work, she pulled the gun and fired the two shots at him. Both bullets went wide of the mark.

Miss Miller, who bears an excellent character, will be sent to her home in Pawnee, Okla., today and although there will be no prosecution in the case, the weapon will be confiscated by the police, and will form another relic in the curious collection now at police headquarters.

[illegible] WEDDING BELLS FOR [illegible] BRIDES OF JUNE

It was a very pretty wedding that took place yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. William A. Shepard, 106 Cheyenne road, when their daughter, Miss Delia Alsena Shepard, and Mr. Karl Courtlandt Schuyler were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. James B. Gregg, of the First Congregational church, in the presence of about fifty relatives and friends.

The house decorations throughout were green and white and the bridal party stood under an archway made of wild clematis and snowballs. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Lucy Shepard, and Miss Margaret Isham. Both young ladies wore gowns of white and carried bridesmaid roses. The bride's gown was of white crepe de chine, and she carried lilies of the valley. The wedding march was played by Miss Helen West and after the ceremony an informal reception was held.

Mr. and Mrs. Schuyler left last evening on an extended wedding trip and will not return to Colorado until October 1, when they will be at home to their friends at Denver. Both of the young people are well known here, and the bride was graduated from Vassar college only last week. Mr. Schuyler has been one of the prominent young lawyers of Colorado Springs.

Invitations have been received here for the marriage of Miss Grace Thomas, the daughter of Mrs. J. N. Thomas of St. Joseph, Mo., and Mr. Carleton Edison Long of this city. The wedding will take place in St. Joseph next Wednesday evening and the young people will come to this city at once. They will be at home to their friends at 518 South Weber street after August 1. Miss Thomas has visited in Colorado Springs a number of times and is well known here. Mr. Long is connected with the Colorado Telephone company.

The marriage of Miss Jessie Merle Tobias and Mr. E. James Smith, Jr., took place yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Nora Tobias, 106 South Wahsatch avenue. The ceremony was performed in the presence of about 30 friends, by the Rev. C. B. Wilcox of the First Methodist church. The bride was attended by Miss Josephine Levyle of Pueblo, and the best man was James Smith. The decorations throughout the house were of pink carnations and smilax, and after the ceremony a small reception was held. Mr. and Mrs. Smith left during the evening for a short wedding trip, and after July 1, they will be at home to their friends at 106 South Wahsatch avenue.

Miss Nellie Blanche Ballintine and Peter Groome, Jr., both of Colorado City, were united in marriage yesterday morning at 10 o'clock at the residence of M. T. Burwell, 127 Colorado avenue. It was a small wedding and only a few intimate friends were present. After a visit of a few days in Glenwood Springs, Mr. and Mrs. Groome will be at home to their friends at 1712 Colorado avenue, Colorado Springs.

A wedding of interest to many Colorado Springs people was that of Miss Marion Williams and J. D. Clarke, formerly athletic coach at Colorado college, which took place yesterday at the bride's home in Cheyenne, Wyo. The bride is a graduate of the college and it was here that the young people first met. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Clarke left on their wedding trip after which they will be at home to their friends in New York.

Attacks of colic, cholera morbus and diarrhoea come on so suddenly that there is no time to hunt a doctor or go to the store for medicine. Mr. Barber says: "I have tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy which is one of the best medicines I ever saw. I keep a bottle of it in my room as I have had several attacks of colic, and it has proved to be the best medicine I ever used." Sold by all druggists.

[illegible] YESTERDAY LONGEST DAY OF THE YEAR

The electric storms of yesterday and of Tuesday evening have been explained. They were not due to the laughing gas of the Dental convention, the chemical action of the druggists' brand of "Manitou," nor the pyrotechnic display of Colorado State Realty energies as had at first been supposed. Their origin lay in the unsettled condition due to the summer solstice, Yesterday, June 21, being the longest day in the year. From now on the weather will be settled.

AUTOMOBILE CLUB BOOSTS PLAN FOR NEW BOULEVARD

The Denver-Colorado Springs boulevard project was given another boost yesterday morning when, at a meeting of the Colorado Springs Automobile club held at the El Paso club, Dr. C. A. Holder, president of the club, was authorized to appoint a committee to make a personal examination of the road between Colorado Springs and Denver, as well as other roads and streets in this immediate locality, with a view to repairing bad places at the expense of the Automobile club.

A resolution was adopted by the club heartily approving the ordinance passed by the city council Monday night which limits the speed of automobiles to 12 miles an hour within the fire limits, 18 miles outside the fire limits and five miles around corners and across streets. The resolution not only pledged the club and its members to the support of the ordinance, but condemned the practice of running at excessive rates of speed and stated that the club will not aid or assist in any way any member arrested for violating the speed provisions of the new ordinance.

J. W. Batchelder was selected as the clubs representative to serve with Chief of Police Alex Adams and Alderman R. J. Verner to supervise the issuing of licenses to automobilists as provided by the new ordinance.

John Townsend, of 1220 North Nevada avenue, was elected to active membership.

COURT NEWS

Trial of the case of W. W. Atkinson vs. Clough & Anderson was commenced in the district court yesterday before Judge L. W. Cunningham and a jury of twelve. The complaint alleges five causes of action in which the total sum of $2,860.95 is claimed under a contract awarded the plaintiff by the defendant for concrete work at the Sugar Loaf reservoir in Lake county, Colo.

Judgment in favor of the plaintiff in the case of A. L. Salomon et al vs. the Austin Bluffs Fuel company et al., was entered by Judge Cunningham yesterday for $1 damages and possession of the coal property described as the northeast quarter of section 4, township 14 south, range 66 west, which has been operated under lease by the coal company. The action was dismissed as to the other defendants in the case.

Wm. Latimer was released from the county jail upon an order from Judge Cunningham, having served his sentence for assault and battery.

In the matter of Henry Harper vs. E. M. DeLaVergne in the county court yesterday Judge Robert Kerr granted the motion of the plaintiff for a new trial and overruled the objection of the defendant that there had been a change of judges in the court since the trial of the case.

In the probate division the following orders were entered by Judge Kerr: Final report approved in the estate of Carl J. Peters; letters of guardianship granted to H. C. Hall in the estate of the Hall minors, and final report approved in the estate of G. N. Tibbetts, a minor.

Pearl I. Ray has filed a petition in divorce in the county court from George W. Ray, whom she married on June 17, 1893, at Minneapolis, Kas. The complaint charges the defendant with deserting the plaintiff and his three children on August 1, 1902, since which time he has failed and refused to contribute to their support.

LAYING SIDEWALKS WITHIN FIRE LIMITS

Property owners within the fire limits, as a general rule, are obeying the recent orders of the police department with regard to the laying of sidewalks, and work is now in progress in every direction. On South Nevada avenue between Huerfano and Cucharas streets cement walks are being laid, and orders have been given for a concrete sidewalk to be laid in front of the Stratton estate property on North Nevada avenue, between Pike's Peak avenue and Kiowa street. Work is also in progress on Bijou street, near Nevada avenue, and the property at South Cascade avenue and Cucharas street will receive the attention of the sidewalk builders within a few days.

MEMBERS OF DUFF GANG ARRESTED

RETURN TO CITY ON VISIT AND ARE LAILED IN JAIL ON CHARGE OF VAGRANCY.

George Wilson and Doc. Dean were arrested at the Santa Fe depot shortly before noon yesterday by City Detective John Rowan and Patrolman McInturf and taken to police headquarters to answer to a charge of vagrancy. The men are known here as undesirable characters and have been recognized by the police of this city and Colorado City as having formerly been members of the Duff gang of bunco men. Dean has served time in the county jail, being sent down for 60 days for stealing an overcoat. When placed in the "sweat box" they admitted having been in this vicinity for the last three days, "but we have not turned a trick," concluded one of them as they begged to be released upon a promise to stay away from the city. They will be presented to Judge Toombs this morning.

Superintendent Vining of the Colorado Midland railroad has invited the street committee of the city council to inspect the beds of disintegrated granite along that road, and it is probable that the entire council will go up the line within a few days for that purpose.

Complaints were received by Chief Adams yesterday that little Frank Riggs was bitten by a dog at 1415 North Cascade avenue and Officer McReynolds was sent out to investigate. The owner of the animal was notified to remove the dog from the city or turn it over to the police to be killed.

Inspector Young has granted a permit to J. D. Griffith for the erection of a frame cottage of five rooms and bath at 1828 Colorado avenue, to cost $1,300.

SLOT MACHINE GAS METER WAS STOLEN

Thieves forced an entrance into the Brunswick billiard hall on Pike's Peak avenue early yesterday morning and robbed the money drawer of the slot machine gas meter. Entrance was gained by breaking the glass in a rear door which enabled the thieves to unbolt the door. It is supposed that the thieves secured between $8 and $10 from the slot drawer. They left no clue.

ORE MILLS AND COAL MINES INAUGURATE 8-HOUR DAY

CENTRAL CITY, Colo., June 21. In order to force the owners to adopt an eight-hour day, as provided in an act passed by the last legislature, the men at the stamp mills on North Clear creek, at Black Hawk, struck yesterday and the stamps were hung up until this morning when three out of the six mills, the Bobtail, Buell and the Hidden Treasure, and the Rocky Mountain concentrator resumed work. Of these the Hidden Treasure mill is not running full, as practically no agreement has been arrived at between the mill owners and the employes, but it is known that the mill men have been promised protection against fines.

At the Bobtail an eight-hour day has been adopted at $2.50, where it was $3 for 12 hours, and will be worked with special shifts, a temporary agreement to that effect having been made with the men.

The Buell mill is working on the eight-hour scale awaiting advices of the manager in Denver, and at the concentrator it is believed that an eight-hour agreement will be reached.

The Gilpin, Polar Star and Randolph mills did not start work today.

FLORENCE, Colo., June 21.—In compliance with the eight-hour law the Colorado Fuel & Iron company this morning started all its coal properties in this county on the eight-hour work day basis.

The shorter day, however, only affects the miners, and all the company men working on the outside and inside of the mines, unless objections are raised, must continue to work 10 hours per day.

IMPORTANT SUIT SETTLED

Special to the Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, June 21.—By papers received in this city today and filed for record, a settlement of one of the most important mining cases in the history of the district has been made. The suit was over the C. O. D. and was originally entitled Henry Higgins vs. Mason B. Carpenter, et al. John Perry, of Denver, finally came into possession of the C. O. D. property. The suit was brought in the courts of El Paso county in 1896 by John S. Hunt, who demanded over $5,000 from the Rebecca Mining company, then operating the C. O. D. Mr. Hunt received a judgment for the amount asked for, together with about $1,000 in interest, and then assigned his judgment to John A. Hayes, who, in turn, assigned his claim to John Perry, who gained further claim to the property by securing a treasurer's deed for the payment of $600 in taxes. To further complicate matters, on June 30, 1902, the property was sold by sheriff's sale to satisfy the judgment obtained in the El Paso court. M. B. Carpenter, one of the defendants in the original suit, bid the property in but could not put up the necessary amount, so yesterday the property was once more sold by sheriff's sale, and John Perry received a sheriff's deed to it.

A decree from the district court of Denver county allowed several claims against the property, which amounted to nearly $2,000.

TO DEVELOP JERRY JOHNSON TERRITORY

Special to the Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, June 21. Blocks four and eight of the Jerry Johnson company on Ironclad hill, under lease to the D. A. C. Leasing company, are to be thoroughly and systematically developed at a depth of 500 feet, and operations are to be pushed through. The Forest Queen shaft adjoining. The development work will be watched with a great deal of interest.

The 500-foot level of the Forest Queen property will be extended a distance of about 400 feet in order to cut into the center of the Jerry Johnson. The Forest Queen lessees broke good ore right to their line. The prospects are that the new operators will make their cross-cut in ore.

KEENER OPERATING ON GLOBE HILL

Special to the Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, June 21.—Geo. L. Keener, who is operating the Lady Stith on Globe hill, owned by the Stratton estate, is making four feet a day in driving from the Chicago-Cripple Creek tunnel level in order to get at the property at a good depth. Mr. Keener took out a large body of ore at grass roots and then began sinking. Before he had gone far a well-defined vein was encountered. Obtaining permission from the Chicago-Cripple Creek tunnel people to operate through their bore, he expects to strike the ore body encountered above. Should the ore shoot prove to extend with this depth, Mr. Keener will then have over 800 feet of stoping ground.

Painless, Natural Childbirth.

Baby's coming into the world should be preceded by a certain preparation on the part of every woman who expects to become a mother. She owes it as a duty to her unborn babe, and to herself, her duty to her unborn babe is to use every means within her power to aid his entrance into the world. Baby cannot help himself in this ordeal, therefore mother must. He has a hard enough time after his arrival, so let us make his coming easy. His health in after life depends greatly upon the manner of his coming. Would you have your child a cripple, or would you have him a tower of strength? Strong men are but grown children; a famous surgeon in Vienna is devoting his entire week to the cure of little helpless cripples, deformed by birth; do not allow your child to become a cripple.

SPECULATIVE LEADERSHIP STARTED PRICES UPWARD

NEW YORK, June 21. The speculative leadership for which the rank and file of small traders had been watching in order to determine the direction of their ventures, asserted itself in the stock market today and whipped up a sharp price movement and a considerable degree of animation. It was evident that the outstanding short interest had been extended to unsuspected proportions owing to the temptation of professional operators to take the short side in a very dull market. The demand from the uncovered shorts formed an important element in extending the advance when the aggressive market leadership had established itself. The ammunition employed by this leadership was not all of a very substantial character and some of the incidents of the day were of a kind that would have proved distinctly discouraging in a market where depression was the order of the day.

A considerable volume of realizing sales was found to overhang the market, placed there by anxious holders who have been waiting for an opportunity to sell their stocks. It was not until late in the day that the movement to take profits began to make any effective drag on the advance. By that time a considerable portion of the requirement from the short interest had been satisfied. The early movement centered very largely in speculative and United States Steel preferred made an effective leader. Reports of large orders for Russian naval construction were current and something was made of the published denial by Mr. Schwab of an intention to combine a number of independent corporations to compete with the United States Steel corporation.

Doubtful factors, which were ignored during the day, were crop damage rumors, a reduction in the price of refined sugar, a declaration of the regular dividend on Lehigh Valley and the discovery of fraudulent raising of stock certificates in Philadelphia. Any one of these incidents would have unsettled the market at any time in the recent past. The closing tone was unsettled and irregular.

Bonds were quiet. Total sales, par value, $4,240,000.

U. S. bonds were all unchanged on call.

MARKET OPENED WEAK BUT WAS STEADY AT THE CLOSE

CHICAGO, June 21.—Notwithstanding numerous reports of damage to the wheat crop by wet weather, the market here today closed easy as a result of liberal profit taking. Final quotations on July were off ¼@½c, corn and oats were each down ⅛c, provisions are a shade higher to 7½c lower.

Weakness in the wheat market prevailed at the start, initial quotations on July being off ¼@½c at 85⅞ to 85⅝. The opening decline was mainly a reflection of lower prices at Liverpool. Although additional rain had fallen throughout a large portion of the wheat belt, comparatively little apprehension seemed to be felt among pit traders who sold quite freely on the slight decline in foreign markets. Commission houses were fair buyers but the demand was not sufficient to prevent the price of July declining to 85⅝c.

Suddenly, however, the market turned bullish. Prices made quick advance, July selling up to 90c. The greatest strength was manifested in the July option, the reason being the high prices being paid for cash wheat (new crop) in the southwest markets. A report from St. Louis stated that $1 per bushel was paid for No. 2 red, new, and another cause for the sudden upturn was a report that while harvesting in Oklahoma is progressing rapidly, the yield is only poor to fair. Shortage in yield was said to be due to chinch bugs and black rust. From the northwest, simultaneously came reports of fresh damage by rust.

Late in the session the market again turned weak. The reason was heavy liquidation of September by an influential long. All the advance was lost, the final quotations on July being at 85⅞@85⅝. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 27,600 bushels. Primary receipts were 162,700 bushels, compared with 259,300 bushels a year ago. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 110 cars against 108 cars last week and 185 cars a year ago. Liberal profit taking by prominent holders caused a weak close in the corn market. July opened ½c lower at 54⅝c, sold between 54⅝c and 54⅛c, and closed at 54⅜c. Local receipts were 411 cars, with 119 cars of contract grade.

The oats market was strong all day, closing easy. July opened unchanged at 31½c, sold between 31½c and 31⅝c, and closed at 31⅝c. Local receipts were 65 cars.

Provisions were easy on a 5@10c decline in the price of live hogs. At the close September pork was off 5@7½c, at $12.77½. Lard was up a shade at $7.42½. Ribs were off 2½@5c, at $7.72½. Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, one car; corn, 428 cars; oats, 102 cars; hogs, 29,000 head.

Asthma Sufferers Should Know This

Foley's Honey and Tar has cured many cases of asthma that were considered hopeless. Mrs. Adolph Buesing, 701 West Third street, Davenport, Iowa, writes: "A severe cold contracted twelve years ago was neglected until it finally grew into asthma. The best medical skill available could not give me more than temporary relief. Foley's Honey and Tar was recommended and one fifty cent bottle entirely cured me of asthma which had been growing on me for twelve years, and if I had taken it at the start I would have been saved years of suffering."
